I received a text message on my personal cell phone asking if Ty with Ralph Northam's campaign for governor could count on my vote in the upcoming election. They addressed me by the wrong name, the same way telemarketers sometimes do in order to start a sales pitch. I would just like to stop getting this kind of message. I did not think unsolicited calls were allowed, and don't know the rules about texts.

I've been receiving unsolicited text messages from two numbers 804-413-6494 and 757-350-8451, both for a campaign in Virginia for Ralph Northam. I have asked them to stop sending me message by replying and calling their campaign offices and they continue to do so. I request to be updated and have this matter pursued under violations of the Can Spam Act of 2003.

Additional Information

Full message:

"Hey, (b) (6) My name is Jean and I'm with Ralph Northam for Governor. Today is Primary Day! Can we count on your support?"

The text was addressed to my mother who is the primary user of our family cell phone plan. That said, I'm not sure how this campaign support group got my number and my mother did not provide my number to them. I find it strange, and I don't appreciate getting harassed about elections for states that I'm not even a resident of.
